

MAKE A LASTING IMPACT

Early Childhood Educators are the brain builders who set children up for future success.

Become an Early Childhood Educator

- A variety of career opportunities exist in regulated child care, pre-primary programs and other early childhood education settings.
- Early childhood educators are licensed and receive a classification level reflecting their training in early childhood education. Salary range depends on the setting and level of training. A licensed early childhood educator typically starts at $17/hour.
- Early childhood educators are recognized for their expertise in setting children up for lifelong learning and success by implementing programs for children and families from infancy to 12 years.
- Nova Scotia's early learning framework views children as curious, creative, full of potential, capable, and confident. Ongoing professional development, leadership, training and resources are provided at the community level for early childhood educators and other early years professionals.
